GUS ASTLEY STUDENT AWARD

The IHBC Gus Astley Student Award is presented for an outstanding item of taught coursework accepted as part of either under-graduate or post-graduate courses

Submissions may cover any areas relating to conservation including:

Evaluation (e.g. history, research or archaeology)

Management (e.g. policy, finance or business)

Intervention (e.g. design, technology or architecture)

For more information search the IHBC NewsBlogs news service, members' journal Context and more - all linked from the IHBC's Home Page www.ihbc.org.uk

The IHBC's Gus Astley Student Award submissions are an encouraging affirmation of the sector's ability to provide expertise in the future; it is heartening that there are so many committed and talented graduates. This would have given Gus Astley, the IHBC's former Membership secretary in who's honour we make this award, great delight and satisfaction.
